Category: Human Resources

Applies to: staff, faculty, student

Contact: Human Resources

Purpose: Policy regarding the response and handling of an infectious disease.

Policy Statement: The University of Central Oklahoma recognizes the need to analyze individual circumstances and respond to each person's infectious condition on a case-by-case basis. Responding to each case individually rather than developing a "blanket policy" is in the interest of flexibility, sensitivity, simplicity, and the balancing of legitimate interests.

Victims of diseases will be permitted to work at and/or enroll in courses at the University of Central Oklahoma unless the employee's personal physician, campus medical officials, or state or federal public health officials declare the disease presents a substantial risk to the health and safety of other members of the community. In such instances, appropriate measures will be taken to protect the institution and the individual.
