Media Title: ABCs of Emotional Behavioral Disorder (DVD)

ITC Number: 782 (*for best service, use this number when making your request)

Year of Copyright: 2004

Length: 35min.

Captioned: Yes

Synopsis:

Every school has kids with emotional and behavioral disorders. They can be bright, engaging and fun but are also difficult, disruptive and taxing for teachers and classmates alike. The ABCs of Emotional Behavioral Disorder outlines a best practice approach to successfully integrate elementary and middle school EBD students into the educational mainstream. The video features Bob Clasen, professor emeritus and Molly Kilkenny, special education teacher, as well as student portraits and family interviews.

Segments include: Myths and misconceptions, searching for hidden strengths, Amanda's story, instructional strategies, and role plays to de-escalate and resolve conflict. The profile of eleven year-old Amanda puts theory into practice. She is charming but lonely, hard-working but struggling with grades and aware of her challenges yet optimistic about the future.

Media Title: Beginnings, The: Fertility (DVD)

ITC Number: 776 (*for best service, use this number when making your request)

Year of Copyright: 2003

Length: 28min.

Captioned: Yes

Synopsis:

Focuses on how three families overcame obstacles in their quest to become parents. This program shows how three families cope with infertility, in vitro fertilization, adoption, and surrogate motherhood. Each case study illustrates the options that are available to couples who are struggling to have a child. The first family shares their experience with infertility. Through in vitro fertilization, they gave birth to two daughters. After a host of fertility treatments, the second family adopted a high-risk infant, born premature with low birthweight due to the birth mother's exposure to teratogens. The third family was able to conceive, but was unable to sustain pregnancy so a surrogate mother carried their developing baby to term.

ITC Number: 783 (*for best service, use this number when making your request)

Year of Copyright: 2010

Length: 24min.

Captioned: Yes

Synopsis:

We use mental shortcuts every day to help us make decisions, and often we don't even realize it. This program explores five mental shortcuts, or "blind spots": Expectation, Belief, Availability, Anchors, and Imitation. Learn why optical illusions and magic tricks surprise us, and how our need to confirm our beliefs often prevent a cold. Understand how availability affects purchasing habits, how a bias can make a normal price seem like a great sale, and what causes laughter to be so contagious.

ITC Number: 812 (*for best service, use this number when making your request)

Year of Copyright: 2006

Length: 60min.

Captioned: Yes

Synopsis:

The United States continues to be the wealthiest country in the world, yet one in eight Americans—approximately 37 million people—live below the poverty line. This program analytically and sympathetically discusses the effects and implications of poverty, examining factors such as illiteracy, insufficient job skills, substance abuse, and crime. The phenomenon of multigenerational poverty is also addressed, underscoring the disturbing pattern of poverty begetting poverty. Interviews with impoverished people and those who reach out to them put a human face on a demographic group that lives below the radar of wealthy and middle-class Americans.

ITC Number: 800 (*for best service, use this number when making your request)

Year of Copyright: 2010

Length: 38min.

Captioned: Yes

Synopsis:

Bullied is a documentary film that chronicles one student's ordeal at the hands of anti-gay bullies and offers an inspiring message of hope to those fighting harassment today. It can become a cornerstone of anti-bullying efforts in middle and high schools.

Bullied includes:

A 40-minute documentary film (DVD), with closed captioning and with Spanish subtitles

A two-part viewer's guide with standards-aligned lesson plans and activities for use in staff development

Additional materials online (<http://www.tolerance.org/bullied>)

Bullied is designed to help administrators, teachers and counselors create a safer school environment for all students, not just those who are gay and lesbian. It is also intended to help all students understand the terrible toll bullying can take on its victims, and to encourage students to stand up for their classmates who are being harassed. A teaching tolerance documentary.

ITC Number: 748 (*for best service, use this number when making your request)

Year of Copyright: 1999

Length: 29min.

Captioned: Yes

Synopsis:

Selecting a mate may just be the most important life decision anyone ever makes. It's also not a decision everyone makes in the same way; adults engage in many different types of relationships with one another. Young adults look to their teachers, parents, and other adult role models for advice and example. In Love, Marriage & Divorce we confront the issues and theories behind the selection of a mate and the commitment of marriage, and also discuss why so many of today's marriages end in divorce.

ITC Number: 750 (*for best service, use this number when making your request)

Year of Copyright: 1999

Length: 28min.

Captioned: Yes

Synopsis:

Why is the period of early adulthood often referred to as the "prime of life"? Our program begins with a broad overview of what happens to the body physically during this phase. Strong, understanding adult mentors and role models are critically important as boys and girls learn what it means to become men and women. We discuss the ways in which teachers and parents can effectively continue to relate to and guide the youngsters in their care as they embark on this new stage of life. Also explored is the issue of aging, which begins almost imperceptibly during young adulthood.

ITC Number: 752 (*for best service, use this number when making your request)

Year of Copyright: 2001

Length: 28min.

Captioned: Yes

Synopsis:

The final video in this series necessarily focuses on the end of late adulthood, which for human beings is death. Dying and bereavement are experienced very differently in different cultures. This sociocultural context of dying is explored in depth from a variety of perspectives. The pioneer in the discussion of death in our culture is Elizabeth Kubler-Ross. Her seminal work is presented as a way of conceptualizing the dying process. Bereavement is also a process, and its various aspects are examined as well. Finally, widowhood, a state that will be experienced by half of all married people, is presented focusing on the differences in adjustment to widowhood that exists for men and for women.

ITC Number: 751 (*for best service, use this number when making your request)

Year of Copyright: 2000

Length: 28min.

Captioned: Yes

Synopsis:

At around age forty, a lot of interesting physiological changes begin to take place in a person's body. Learn how and why: hair begins to turn gray and thins, skin becomes drier and more wrinkled, the shape of the body begins to change, eyes and ears don't work as well as they used to, and menopause hits both women and men. It's at this age, too, that lifestyle choices both current and past begin to show their real impact. Yet many find making changes in diet and exercise can be terribly difficult at this stage of life. Why is this, and what can be done? In Physical Development, we take a broad look at these issues and reveal how middle adulthood can, in fact, be the best time of life if approached properly.

ITC Number: 744 (*for best service, use this number when making your request)

Year of Copyright: 1995

Length: 25min.

Captioned: Yes

Synopsis:

The physical changes of puberty are accompanied by changes in adolescent thinking and moral reasoning. As adolescent thinking becomes more logical and abstract, it is limited by adolescent egocentrism. Additionally, adolescent thinking is enhanced or discouraged by the schooling to which they are exposed. Schools that foster adolescent thinking and learning provide a variety of academic experiences and encourage complex interactions. Adolescents are receptive to their culture, to the models they see at home, in school and in mass media. Decisions regarding sexual behavior are influenced by their ability to think and reason, their values, and educational experience.

ITC Number: 733 (*for best service, use this number when making your request)

Year of Copyright: 2003

Length: 29min.

Captioned: Yes

Synopsis:

This video traces current theory on the sensory and perceptive capabilities used in early learning. The student will see how these senses and the motor activities are involved in the spiraling of infant cognition. In looking at these steps in early cognition, we see the child explore the people and objects in the world the child knows, revealing the child's expanding thinking capabilities. The adult facilitates this learning through the ongoing interactions and responses to the child. Also we view the stages of language development from the first communication to the first word. Emphasized here is the role the adult holds in the child's growing understanding and use of language and communication from early infancy.

Media Title: Developing Child, The: Infancy - Landmarks of Development (DVD)

ITC Number: 732 (*for best service, use this number when making your request)

Year of Copyright: 2003

Length: 22min.

Captioned: Yes

Synopsis:

The first updated module in the infancy series presents today's most current thinking, and time proven truths on how infant development proceeds in an orderly fashion from brain development through physical growth, locomotion, and fine motor skills. From the ability to lift one's head, the baby progresses through stages that culminate with first steps. From the early grasp reflex, the baby gradually learns to pick up small objects with tiny fingers. By looking closely at real children in all contexts, this video showcases these landmarks, identifies their timing, and clarifies the influences of environment and culture. Both natural development and current practice help determine the experiences of breast feeding, weaning and sleeping patterns. The understanding of early brain development brings focus to what is optimal in relationships and stimulation in the first two years of life.

ITC Number: 747 (*for best service, use this number when making your request)

Year of Copyright: 1997

Length: 28min.

Captioned: Yes

Synopsis:

A lot happens to kids' bodies between the ages of six and twelve. Their large and small motor skills develop significantly. They're also at a pivotal stage where conditions such as obesity, diabetes, even stress can disrupt their growth and development if not properly addressed. And other external factors, such as poverty, can create an environment which might be - but doesn't have to be - detrimental to a child. In Physical Growth & Development, expert educators discuss the positive role school can play in children's lives during these years, and how teachers and administrators can contribute positively to their students' health.

ITC Number: 746 (*for best service, use this number when making your request)

Year of Copyright: 2004

Length: 29min.

Captioned: Yes

Synopsis:

Children learn language without much help at all - and yet teachers and schools can play a vital role in helping their students develop critical linguistic skills. This program addresses both the development of language, and the ways in which its acquisition can be enhanced by skilled educators. Viewers will learn how early communication (cries, gestures and sounds) gradually grows into a spoken language that allows a child to explain herself to others, to think through issues and to solve problems on her own. We also identify, explain and discuss the four areas of language.

Media Title: Developing Child, The: Toddlerhood - Emotional Development (DVD)

ITC Number: 731 (*for best service, use this number when making your request)

Year of Copyright: 2003

Length: 29min.

Captioned: Yes

Synopsis:

With toddlerhood both autonomy and independence emerge and this brings about change and uneven emotional growth. Shown are ways to promote autonomy and minimize shame and doubt along with consideration of the various manifestation of this through family rules and practices and culture influences. The acts of eating, toileting and sleeping take on new significance as the child brings these under his/her own control. The video provides guidance in setting limits, responding to temper tantrums, supporting issues of separation, learning socialization with peers and accepting the new baby in the family. Through understanding this development, guidance becomes easier and can ease the toddler through turbulent times.

ITC Number: 730 (*for best service, use this number when making your request)

Year of Copyright: 2003

Length: 26min.

Captioned: Yes

Synopsis:

The toddler stage of physical development begins with the discovery of walking. This action of walking significantly changes the way the toddler sees and examines the world and manipulates objects. At the same time ongoing brain development correlates with significant new mental abilities. These new abilities include exploration and experimentation as the child moves past his first birthday. Next mental representation is seen as the ability to mentally use symbols to represent objects, to pretend, and to use language meaningfully. Along with this cognitive development, language is expanded. A stimulating environment and support from adults are seen to be essential for growth of the toddler in physical skills, intellectual growth and language development.

ITC Number: 793 (*for best service, use this number when making your request)

Year of Copyright: 2008

Length: 29min.

Captioned: Yes

Synopsis:

Drink spiking has become a social and health problem of alarming proportions. This program explains what drink spiking is and helps students recognize situations that may increase vulnerability to drink spiking and date rape. Highlighting the growing prevalence of the crime, the video uses case studies to illustrate when and where the offense is likely to occur and profiles the type of people who do it. Also examined are the substances commonly used in drink spiking—including their street names and their potential physical, emotional, and social effects—and the consequences for those who commit drink spiking. Expert guests include Geoff Munro, director of the Australian Drug Foundation. ITC Number: 790 (*for best service, use this number when making your request)

Year of Copyright: 2007

Length: 25min.

Captioned: Yes

Synopsis:

Although marijuana is often considered a “soft” drug, recent studies suggest that it is anything but safe—especially for young people. This program examines cannabis in the same context as harder drugs and reveals the devastating consequences of becoming addicted in childhood or adolescence. Stories from teenagers and young adults provide an unflinching look at how a user gets hooked and grows isolated from others. The video also delves into the chemical makeup of marijuana; presents statistics and expert commentary regarding its short- and long-term effects on the brain and body; reveals insights into high-risk behavior; and provides information on legal issues surrounding the drug. Year of Copyright: 1998

Length: 17min.

Captioned: Yes

Synopsis:

Seattle's World Famous Pike Place Fish is an otherwise ordinary fish market that's extraordinarily successful. The work is hard and the hours are long-yet these employees make a personal choice to bring amazing passion, playfulness, commitment and a positive attitude to work every day. People watch FISH! once because it's fun, but they watch it over and over because it's fundamental to satisfying work and delighted customers. That is why thousands of organizations worldwide, such as Saturn, Sprint and Southwest Airlines, have adopted its vital message. FISH! has created a new vocabulary of what our jobs could be about. It's so simple that it's profound. It won't just change how you view work; it may change how you view life.

The FISH! Philosophy is a set of four connected principles that are the foundation for a healthy workplace and life:

-- PLAY: Work made fun gets done, especially when we choose to do serious tasks in a lighthearted, spontaneous way. Play is not just an activity; it's a state of mind that brings new energy to tasks and sparks creative solutions.

-- MAKE THEIR DAY: When you make "someone's day" (or moment) through a small act of kindness or unforgettable engagement, you can turn even routine encounters into special memories.

-- BE THERE: The glue in our humanity is in being fully present for one another. Being there is also a great way to practice wholeheartedness and fight burnout, because it's the halfhearted tasks you perform while juggling other things that wear you out.

-- CHOOSE YOUR ATTITUDE: When you look for the worst you will find it everywhere. When you learn you have the power to choose your response to what life brings, you can look for the best and find opportunities you never imagined possible.

Media Title: Including Samuel (DVD)

ITC Number: 813 (*for best service, use this number when making your request)

Year of Copyright: 2009

Length: 58min.

Captioned: Yes

Synopsis:

Before his son Samuel was diagnosed with cerebral palsy, photojournalist Dan Habib rarely thought about the inclusion of people with disabilities. Now he thinks about inclusion every day. Shot and produced over four years, Habib's award-winning documentary film, Including Samuel, chronicles the Habib family's efforts to include Samuel in every facet of their lives. The film honestly portrays his family's hopes and struggles as well as the experiences of four other individuals with disabilities and their families. Including Samuel is a highly personal, passionately photographed film that captures the cultural and systemic barriers to inclusion.

The film has been screened at universities, national conferences, public television stations and independent theatres across the country. Including Samuel has also been featured on NPR's All Things Considered, Good Morning America, as well as in the Washington Post and the Boston Globe. The film won the Positive Images in Media award from TASH, an international group committed to the full inclusion of people with disabilities. It has also screened at the Sprout Film Festival at the Metropolitan Museum of Art, the Boston International Film Festival, the Ft. Lauderdale International Film Festival, the Moscow International Disability Film Festival and won the "Excellence Award" from Superfest International Film Festival in Berkeley, CA. The global aid group Mercy Corps is using the film to support the Iraqi disability rights movement.

ITC Number: 765 (*for best service, use this number when making your request)

Year of Copyright: 2007

Length: 40min.

Captioned: Yes

Synopsis:

This addition to our acclaimed series focused on the giants of psychology and education, is a film on John Bowlby, Mary Ainsworth's long-time colleague. The film features Howard Steele, PH.D. Positive intimate relationships with spouses, relatives and friends are incredibly important to mental health in adulthood. John Bowlby's Attachment Theory shows how relational patterns set early in life affect emotional bonds later in life. This film's focus is on attachment theory as it explains many aspects of personality development from childhood through to adulthood. The film is a companion piece to our very popular 2005 release on Bowlby's colleague, Mary Ainsworth, which was centered largely on the development of attachment relationships in infancy. This film addresses issues related to attachment in later life as people seek to establish new ties and cope with separations and losses. Therapeutic applications of the theory as developed by Dr. Bowlby and others are illustrated, along with new insights that neuroscience brings us to understand the legacy of attachment histories.

Media Title: Mary Ainsworth: Attachment and the Growth of Love (DVD)

ITC Number: 764 (*for best service, use this number when making your request)

Year of Copyright: 2005

Length: 38min.

Captioned: Yes

Synopsis:

Mary Ainsworth's "Strange Situation" is now basic to understandings of infant-parent interactions and, thus, later emotional development. Working in close collaboration with the British psychiatrist John Bowlby, Ainsworth gave us new understandings of the huge impact very early emotional experiences have on personality development across the life span. The production details the developmental course of attachment behaviors and the different patterns that are captured by the controlled observational techniques of the "Strange Situation." Using archival (including the Harlow primate studies) and new film sequences, the video also gives students a sense of how psychological research is conducted and used in therapeutic situations.

Media Title: Multiplication of Two-Digit Numbers: Two Teachers Using Piaget's Theory (VHS)

ITC Number: 300 (*for best service, use this number when making your request)

Year of Copyright: 1990

Length: 22min.

Captioned: No

Synopsis:

This videotape is the third in a series documenting a program in teaching primary mathematics based on the theory of Jean Piaget. The videotape illustrates an extension into third grade of the program described in detail in Young Children Continue to Reinvent Arithmetic - Second Grade (New York: Teachers College Press, 1989). The program opposes the traditional assumption that math is a subject matter that must be learned by internalization from the environment, and that this internalization is best accomplished by giving conventional rules, individual exercises, and feedback from the teacher.

Media Title: Piaget's Developmental Theory: An Overview (DVD)

ITC Number: 762 (*for best service, use this number when making your request)

Year of Copyright: 1989

Length: 25min.

Captioned: Yes

Synopsis:

The work of Jean Piaget has become the foundation of current developmental psychology and the basis for changes in educational practice. David Elkind, author of The Hurried Child and Miseducation, and a student of Jean Piaget, explores the roots of Piaget's work and outlines important vocabulary and concepts that structure much of the study of child development. Using both archival film of Dr. Piaget and newly shot sequences of Dr. Elkind conducting interviews with children of varying ages, this film presents an overview of Piaget's developmental theory, its scope and content. The film can serve either as an introduction to Piaget's work or as a review of it.

Media Title: Preschoolers: Cognitive Development (DVD)

ITC Number: 759 (*for best service, use this number when making your request)

Year of Copyright: 2008

Length: 24min.

Captioned: Yes

Synopsis:

It is simply fascinating to observe how preschoolers begin to use language, mental imagery and symbolic thinking; think of past and future events; and think about their own thinking. Children start to clearly express themselves and grasp sophisticated mental activities, including emotion, motivation, intention and memory. Using footage of preschoolers in the classroom, dynamic graphics and interviews with teachers and caregivers, this program delivers a detailed overview of the cognitive development that takes place between the ages of three and five. This program shows how the brain grows neural bridges and strengthens a child's intellect, widely studied developmental theories of cognitive development and how to encourage it and characteristics of preoperational thought. Also covered are areas of language development, how children use symbolic thought and how "theory of the mind" helps preschoolers understand what the mind is and how it works. We also demonstrate teaching methods to guide preschoolers to higher-order thinking skills.

ITC Number: 763 (*for best service, use this number when making your request)

Year of Copyright: 1994

Length: 28min.

Captioned: Yes

Synopsis:

The work of Lev Vygotsky is increasingly cited as we reconsider the theory and practice of constructivist education. This program introduces the life, vocabulary and concepts of Lev Vygotsky. The video illustrates four basic concepts integral to his work: Children construct knowledge, learning can lead development, development cannot be separated from its social context, and language plays a central role in cognitive development. Elena Bodrova brings an easy familiarity to these concepts. Deborah Leong's commentary and the lively classroom examples enable students, teachers in training, and classroom teachers to incorporate these concepts into their understanding of child development.

Year of Copyright: 1992

Length: 240min.

Captioned: Yes

Synopsis:

This video instructional series for college and high school classrooms and adult learners shows how people with psychological disorders actually behave, presenting a range of abnormalities as well as more common problems.

Program 1: Looking at Abnormal Behavior -- The program visits the Jackson Memorial Hospital Crisis Center in Miami, where suicidal, depressed, and schizophrenic patients meet with psychologists, psychiatrists, and social workers to assess the nature and seriousness of their problems. It also introduces the various theories used to explain and treat abnormal behavior.

Program 2: The Nature of Stress --We see that stress affects many people - from the overworked and out-of-work, to survivors of suicide and homicide, to Vietnam War veterans who continually re-experience the stress of the battlefield. The program explores the long-term effects of stress and what is known about how to reduce them.

Program 3: The Anxiety Disorders -- Even in the best of times, we all experience some anxiety. But millions of Americans suffer from major anxiety disorders. This program examines two of the most common, panic with agoraphobia and generalized anxiety disorder, and shows how psychologists are making headway in treating them.

Program 4: Psychological Factors and Physical Illness -- This program examines the relationship between emotions and health to explore how psychological treatment can improve well-being. It focuses on a teenager with migraine headaches, a dentist trying to decrease his risk for developing heart disease, and a woman with breast cancer, along with those who are treating them.

Synopsis:

This video instructional series for college and high school classrooms and adult learners shows how people with psychological disorders actually behave, presenting a range of abnormalities as well as more common problems.

Program 5: Personality Disorders -- One in ten Americans has a personality disorder. Some are mildly annoying; others are exceedingly dangerous. Viewers will meet individuals with narcissistic, anti-social, borderline, and obsessive-compulsive personality disorders, including a murderer and a group of women who mutilate themselves, and will learn about the challenges involved in both diagnosis and treatment.

Program 6. Substance Abuse Disorders --Millions of Americans abuse alcohol, cigarettes, and cocaine. Health professionals know a great deal about these dangerous and costly disorders, including how to treat them. This program examines how the concept of treatment matching is used to help individuals overcome a variety of addictions.

Program 7. Sexual Disorders -- A man exhibits himself in public. A woman feels guilty about not desiring sex. An otherwise happy couple finds themselves at odds over sex. These people share their private problems and demonstrate how the assessment and treatment of sexual disorders has advanced in the past 25 years.

Program 8. Mood Disorders -- Depression is one of the most common psychological problems. In this program, psychologists and biologists look at the causes and treatment of both depression and bipolar disorder and show the progress that has been made in helping people return to productive and satisfying lives.

Synopsis:

This video instructional series for college and high school classrooms and adult learners shows how people with psychological disorders actually behave, presenting a range of abnormalities as well as more common problems.

Program 9: The Schizophrenias -- In emotionally moving interviews, this program visits people who suffer from the hallucinations, paranoia, and psychological disarray of these disabling illnesses. In addition to examining symptoms and treatments, the program helps debunk some of the myths associated with the disorder and shows its human side and the strength of those who fight to overcome it.

Program 10: Organic Mental Disorders -- A teenager must relearn all the basic skills following a head injury. After years of alcohol abuse, a man loses his short-term memory. A woman sees her husband struggle against the ravages of Alzheimer's disease. Science and technology's role in treating these debilitating disorders is also examined in this program.

Program 11: Behavior Disorders of Childhood -- Almost all parents worry whether or not their child's behavior is normal. This program visits families of youngsters with attention deficit hyperactivity disorder, conduct disorder, separation anxiety disorder, and autism. In addition, experts in child development and psychology discuss how to differentiate abnormal behavior from developmental stages.

Program 12: Psychotherapies -- This program allows viewers to "sit-in" on five distinctly different kinds of psychotherapy: psychodynamic, cognitive-behavioral, Gestalt, couples, and group. Theory and practice are intertwined as these patients progress through therapy, sometimes trying alternative models for the same problem.

Program 13: An Ounce of Prevention -- Imagine a society whose citizens are protected from psychological disorders. This final episode visits several programs that are attempting to eliminate known risk factors - including social isolation and inadequate parenting skills - that often lead to serious disorders. The stories are touching; the results are promising.
