Department of Engineering Physics

The Department of Engineering & Physics offers several Scholarships from funds located in the UCO Foundation.

Unfortunately none of these are specified as scholarships for graduate students.

While most are designated for undergraduate students, two or three are not restricted to undergraduates.

Therefore we have never announced or advertised that we offer graduate student scholarships, and we inform any potential graduate student that department scholarships are not available for new graduate students.

However graduate students in our program are allowed to apply for scholarships. After the undergraduate scholarships are determined, graduate student applicants may receive some scholarship money if funds are available. (Excess funds for graduate students have not been available in recent years due to the low return on investments and the increased number of engineering undergraduates.)
