GEOGRAPHY (GEO)
Department of History
Course Offerings

GEO 1103 - Introduction to Geography
This course introduces all major fields of geography. Included, are examinations of physical phenomena such as weather and climate, landforms and natural resources, as well as human phenomena such as population, culture, political organization, economic activities, and cities.

GEO 1204 - Physical Geography with Laboratory
Physical Geography with Laboratory is a survey of the distribution and analysis of the physical Earth, including surface processes and landforms, Earth-sun relationships, soil types, natural vegetation, weather, climate and the hydrologic cycle. Emphasis is placed on inter-relation- ships among these and human-environment interaction.

GEO 1403 - Cultural Geography
This course is a survey of how societies adapted to and modified the earth’s surface while creating cultural landscapes. Population patterns, languages, religions, political structures, and economic structures are emphasized.

GEO 2000 - Topics In Geography
Credit will vary from 1 to 4 hours. Subject matter will vary within the department’s field of study.

GEO 2303 - Regional Geography of the World
A study of the world’s major regions. Each region’s physical, cultural, and politico-economic characteristics are reviewed. Region-wide cooperation patterns are discussed and compared. Most major countries in the region are introduced with emphasis on related current issues.

GEO 2403 - Weather and Climate
This course is a study of weather and climate with emphasis on the impact of natural forces upon humans, animal life, and vegetation.

GEO 3000 - Workshop in Geography
Credit will vary from 1 to 6 hours. Subject matter will vary within the department’s field of study. Normally involves lecture, films, guest speaker, etc. A grade of “P” or “F” is given. No more than 6 hours of workshop may be counted toward a bachelor’s degree.

GEO 3013 - Geographic Skills
This course is an exploration of geographic field methods, Archival research, information analysis, and map interpretation skills. Prerequisite(s): GEO 1403 or 1203 or 1103 or 2303 and sophomore standing or above.

GEO 3103 - Map Analysis and Cartography
This course is designed to increase students’ proficiency in analyzing and creating maps. Students will be introduced to the fundamental principles of map reading and analysis, as well as those skills required to create maps effectively and to communicate myriad types of spatial information.

GEO 3123 - Geography of Europe
This course examines the human and physical geography of Europe including physical regions, economic activities, political trends, and environmental issues. Prerequisite(s): Sophomore standing or above.

GEO 3143 - Geography of Latin America
This course examines the human and physical geography of Latin America including physical regions, economic activities, political trends, and environmental issues. Prerequisite(s): Sophomore standing or above.

GEO 3153 - Geography of Middle East & North Africa
This course examines the human and physical geography of the Middle East and North Africa including physical regions, economic activities, political trends, and environmental issues. Prerequisite(s): Sophomore standing or above.

GEO 3163 - Geography of Africa
This course examines the human and physical geography of Africa including physical regions, economic activities, political trends, and environmental issues. Prerequisite(s): Sophomore standing or above.

GEO 3173 - Geography of Australia & Major Pacific Islands
This course examines the human and physical geography of Australia and the major Pacific Islands including physical regions, economic activities, political trends, and environmental issues. Prerequisite(s): Sophomore standing or above.

GEO 3183 - Geography of South Asia
This course examines the human and physical geography of South Asia including physical regions, economic activities, political trends, and environmental issues. Prerequisite(s): Sophomore standing or above.

GEO 3193 - Geography of the Developing World
This course surveys the human and physical geography of the developing world including physical regions, economic activities, political trends, and environmental issues.

GEO 3203 - Geography of North America
This course examines the human and physical geography of North America including physical regions, economic activities, political trends, and environmental issues. Prerequisite(s): Sophomore standing or above.

GEO 3303 - Geography of Russia & Central Asia
This course is a comprehensive study of the Russian federation and nations of Central Asia. Focus is on the key physical and human geographic phenomena including natural resources, manufacturing, industrial and post-industrial development, and present and probable geopolitical conflicts.

GEO 3323 - Introduction to American Indian Studies
Introduction to American Indian Studies is an interdisciplinary examination of the field of American Indian Studies. Specifically, the course will survey one or more of the following: art, geography, history, law, literature, music, philosophy, religion, and contemporary issues. Prerequisite(s): ENG 1113 and 1213.

GEO 3403 - Geography of the Western Pacific
This course is a comprehensive and comparative study of the countries of East and Southeast Asia. Included is discussion of the human and physical geographies of these regions; intra-national relations; and the relations between countries of the Western Pacific and the rest of the world.

GEO 3503 - World Political Geography
Fundamentals of political geography. Survey of geopolitics. Study of the world’s critical areas.
GEO 3703 - Environmental Conservation
Environmental Conservation covers contemporary environmental issues and policies. Current problems in population growth, food production and distribution, energy shortages, sustaining biodiversity and natural resources, and global climate change will be stressed. Environmental quality and management issues will be discussed at global and national scales. A portion of this course will cover U.S. environmental history. Prerequisite(s): Sophomore standing or above.

GEO 3803 - Geography of Oklahoma
A study of the physical and cultural geographical factors of Oklahoma. The emphasis is on the use of geographical environment in planning the future.

GEO 3990 - Advanced Topics in Geography
Credit will vary from 1 to 4 hours. Subject matter will vary within the department’s field of study.

GEO 4013 - Economic Geography
This course is an in-depth exploration of the human and physical influences on patterns of contemporary economic activities from the local to global scales. Themes include the spatial dimensions of resource use, energy consumption, trade, agriculture, industry and post-industrial landscapes. Prerequisite(s): Sophomore standing or above.

GEO 4113 - Geographic Information Systems
Geographic Information Systems offers intensive instruction in the skills of geographic information system technology and the methods of collecting, storing, assessing, and manipulating geographic information from a multidisciplinary perspective. Prerequisite(s): Junior standing or above.

GEO 4133 - American Indian Geographies
American Indian Geographies examines North American Indian and Inuit peoples and their geographies. Culture areas provide the frame-work for the course within which physical and cultural settings are examined. Particular stress is given to human-environment interactions. Within this context, the course analyzes how environmental perceptions and knowledge inform decisions on settlement patterns, adaptations to particular biotic environments, cultural landscapes, and attachment to place. Prerequisite(s): ENG 1213 and junior standing or above.

GEO 4513 - Historical Geography of North America
This course will provide an historical interpretation of the growth and development of the United States and Canada including the human activities that shaped landscapes and resulting environmental changes. Prerequisite(s): Junior or senior standing.

GEO 4533 - Geography of South & Southwest Asia
This course is an intensive study of one of the most critical regions in the world. The region includes the resource-rich Middle East and the populous Indian subcontinent. Major focus is on resource politics and religious conflicts. Prerequisite(s): Junior standing.

GEO 4603 - Urban Geography
A study of contemporary city systems and their transformation. Topics include the historical perspective of urban development and major cities in the world. It surveys in depth the changing roles of the world’s major urban centers.

GEO 4613 - World Geopolitical Hot Spots
This course is a comprehensive study of selected geopolitical hot spots; including discussion of topical and geographic issues of current importance. Analysis of each topic entails its regional setting, historical development patterns, and its current status. Prerequisite(s): Junior standing.

GEO 4703 - Geographical Information Systems For K-12 Educator
This course introduces geographic information systems as tools for illustrating geographic concepts in K-12 education. The primary focus is on theoretical and practical knowledge of GIS software, as well as applying that knowledge to standards-based education models. Prerequisite(s): Junior or senior standing.

GEO 4713 - Advanced GIS
This course expands on the fundamental GIS concepts learned in GEO 3113, Introduction to Geographic Information Systems. Through “real world” data collection and analysis, advanced functions of GIS will be introduced, including geocoding, avenue programming, arcview spatial analyst, arcview network analyst, and the use of the Global Positioning System (GPS). Prerequisite(s): GEO 3113 and sophomore standing or above.

GEO 4733 - Advanced GIS: Urban/Social
Advanced GIS: Urban/Social offers advanced geographic information systems theory and techniques applied to urban and social issues including urban and regional planning, urban ecology, crime analysis, geocoding, and demographic analysis. Emphasis is placed on geodatabase design, project development and project implementation. Students engage in advanced mapping and data analysis using Spatial Analyst and geographic visualization using 3D Analyst and ArcScene. Prerequisite(s): GEO 4113 and junior standing or above.

GEO 4743 - Advanced GIS: Environmental
Advanced GIS: Environmental covers advanced geographic information systems theory and techniques for environmental/ ecology applications including water quality, soil degradation, land use/land cover change, terrain modeling, and ecosystem inventory and native land management. Students will use both raster and vector data structures and spatial analyst and 3D analyst. Students will be trained in advanced global positioning system (GPS) technology. Field data collection, data editing, GPS/GIS integration will be emphasized. Students will gain field experience for GPS collection techniques. Prerequisite(s): GEO 4113 and (GEO 1204 or 3703 or permission of instructor). Junior standing or above.

GEO 4783 - Advanced GIS: Educational
This course is a forum to analyze and discuss selected current affairs topics from geographic points of view. The topics are major contemporary issues critical in comprehending today’s social, economic, and political landscape. They represent various aspects of the current affairs ranging from environmental concerns to rising nationalism. Particular attention is given to a geographic analysis of the problem development and its implication to the global security and welfare.

GEO 4813 - Geographic Thought & Research
This course is the capstone course for the Geography major. It explores the progression of geographic thought from Ancient Greece to the present. Prerequisite(s): GEO 3013 and junior or senior standing.

GEO 4900 - Practicum in Geography
Credit will vary from 1 to 4 hours. Subject matter will vary within the department’s field of study.

GEO 4910 - Seminar in Geography
Credit will vary from 1 to 4 hours. Subject matter will vary within the department’s field of study.
GEO 4920 - Workshop in Geography
Credit will vary from 1 to 9 hours. Subject matter will vary within the department’s field of study. Normally involves lecture, films, guest speaker, etc. A grade of “P” or “F” is given. No more than 6 hours of workshop may be counted toward a bachelor’s degree.

GEO 4930 - Individual Study in Geography
Credit will vary from 1 to 4 hours. Subject matter will vary within the department’s field of study.

GEO 4940 - Field Study in Geography
Credit will vary from 1 to 6 hours. Subject matter will vary within the department’s field of study.

GEO 4950 - Internship in Geography
Credit will vary from 1 to 8 hours.

GEO 4960 - Institute in Geography
Credit will vary from 1 to 8 hours. Subject matter varies within the department’s field of study.

GEO 4970 - Study Tour in Geography
Credit will vary. Subject matter will vary within the department’s field of study.

HISTORY (HIST)
Department of History
Course Descriptions

HIST 1003 - World History
A survey of major features of the principal civilizations of the world, as they were originally formed and as they have been altered during the past four centuries by the forces of modernity. Defines the major traditional features of each civilization. Emphasizes a world view, not only western but eastern as well. Describes different philosophies and experiences of other cultures and examines how these civilizations intermesh to produce the world that exists today.

HIST 1013 - World History I
World History I introduces students to political, social, and cultural connections and developments in non-Western civilizations from antiquity to the age of discovery.

HIST 1023 - World History II
World History II introduces students to political, social, and cultural developments in non-Western civilizations and cultures from the age of discovery to the late twentieth century.

HIST 1103 - Early Western Civilization To 1350
A survey of western civilization to about 1350, covering the early history of man, the civilizations of the ancient Near-East, Greece, Rome, and the Middle Ages.

HIST 1203 - Europe-Renaissance To Waterloo
A survey of Europe from about 1450 to the defeat of Napoleon in 1815.

HIST 1263 - Modern Europe
A survey of Europe during the 19th and 20th centuries, beginning with the Congress of Vienna in 1815.

HIST 1273 - East Asian Civilization To 1500
This course surveys the major features of the civilizations of East Asia, including China, Japan, Korea, and Vietnam, from their formation until the sixteenth century. This course will focus on the rise of Chinese and Japanese religions, such as Confucianism, Taoism, Buddhism, and Shinto; the formation and development of empires; the cultural exchanges among East Asian countries and between East Asia and other parts of the world; and the position of East Asian civilization in the ancient, classic, and medieval world.

HIST 1283 - East Asian Civilization From 1500
This course surveys the principal civilizations of East Asia, as they were confronted by the West in the sixteenth through nineteenth centuries, and as they failed or succeeded in adapting to the modern international systems in the twentieth century. This course will cover the revolutionary changes in China, Japan, Korea, and Vietnam, and the persistence and flexibility of their traditional cultures and values.

HIST 1333 - A History of African Americans
This course develops an overview of the African American experience from the pre-colonial African period, into earliest contact with the Americas, down to the dawning of the 21st century. The student will learn to recognize, assess, and analyze the value of this rich heritage within the context of U.S. history. Prerequisite(s): Freshman or sophomore standing.

HIST 1483 - History of U.S. To 1877
This course is a survey of American history from the discovery of the New World through the Civil War.

HIST 1493 - History of U.S. Since 1877
This course is a survey of American history from the conclusion of the Civil War to the present.

HIST 2000 - Topics in History
Credit will vary from 1 to 4 hours. Consists of selected topics of an historical nature, each taught by a member of the history staff who has expertise in that particular area. The topic chosen for each course will be chosen on the basis of student interest, significance and relevance to problems of contemporary society.

HIST 2033 - The American Indian
A study of the history and culture of North American Indians from the pre-Columbian period to the federal Indian policies of the 20th century.

HIST 3000 - Workshop In History
Credit will vary from 1 to 6 hours. Subject matter will vary within the department's field of study. Normally involves lecture, films, guest speaker, etc. A grade of “P” or “F” is given. No more than 6 hours of workshop may be counted toward a bachelor’s degree.

HIST 3113 - Historical Research
This course is designed to acquaint the student with the historical profession, the basic reference tools, and the critical use of source materials. Particular attention is given to the development of style and technique in historical writing and research. Recommended for all history majors. Prerequisite(s): ENG 1113 and 1213.

HIST 3123 - Race Class Gender in U.S. History
This course is designed to cut across academic disciplines and serve students from across the University. Enrollees in this course will first reflect upon 20th and 21st century developments in Race, Class, and Gender issues in America and then place them in the context of American history, dating from pre- Columbian, Mesoamerica to the Modern Era. Students will engage in library and field research projects designed to help formulate a fuller comprehension of this historical context of contemporary race, class, and gender dynamics. Prerequisite(s): HIST 1483 or 1493 and ENG 1113 and 1213 (or, for international students, ENG 1153 and 1223). At least junior standing.

HIST 3133 - US History to 1815, History Education Major
Students will learn the historical narrative from the arrival of Columbus, to British colonial settlement, to the rise of the movement for American independence in the mid-eighteenth century. From the Revolutionary War to the War of 1812, students will focus on state formation with an eye to understanding the drafting of the Articles of Confederation, U.S. Constitution, and Bill of Rights. Prerequisite(s): HIST 1483 with a grade of “C” or better and sophomore standing or above.

HIST 3143 - US History 1815-1914, History Education Major
Students will learn the historical narrative beginning with the National Era and ending with the Progressive Era on the eve of the Great War. Topics covered include the Jacksonian Era, Manifest Destiny, abolitionism, the suffrage movement, Populism, unionism, Progressivism, and American imperialism. Students will study the connection between the Constitutional agreements of the eighteenth century, sectionalism resulting in the American Civil War and Reconstruction, and the consequences of this political and social fissure in United States history. Prerequisite(s): HIST 1483 with a grade of “C” or better and sophomore standing or above.
HIST 3213 - World War II
Emphasis is placed on the diplomatic background, the major battles in both the European and Pacific theaters, the home fronts, and the defeat of Germany and Japan.

HIST 3223 - Recent U.S. Constitutional History
Basing the central theme on the constitution as it is understood today, discussion will attempt to show the growth of modern constitutionalism, especially since the Civil War and the Revolution in due process. Highlights include the 14th Amendment and the Bill of Rights.

HIST 3233 - U.S. Women's History
This course explores some of the most significant events in U.S. women's history from the pre-colonial period to the present.
